SC Housing relaunches, reinvigorates statewide housing search tool

COLUMBIA, S.C. (March 25, 2024) – SC Housing is proud to announce the launch of SCHousingSearch.com, a user-friendly rental search website designed to streamline the process of finding rental properties across South Carolina. The free platform provides an extensive database of available rental units, offering a valuable resource for both landlords and tenants alike.

SCHousingSearch.com allows property owners and/or management companies to list their properties for rent, providing a centralized hub for tenants seeking their next home. With an array of search filters including home size, cost, number of bedrooms and bathrooms, and more, users can easily customize their search to find the perfect rental property to suit their needs.

Prospective tenants can begin their search at SCHousingSearch.com. Landlords that would like to register their property on the website may visit SCHousingSearch \(https://schousingsearch.com\).

The ability of landlords to independently list their properties on SCHousingSearch.com provides tenants in search of housing with a robust catalog of available properties when combined with SC Housing’s funded and monitored public developments.

“Our goal with SCHousingSearch.com is to simplify the rental property search process for both landlords and tenants,” said Lisa Wilkerson, Director of Rental Assistance and Compliance at SC Housing. “By offering a user-friendly platform with dynamic search filters, we aim to create a seamless experience that connects renters with available properties across the state.”

The launch of SCHousingSearch.com comes at a critical time, providing an essential tool for individuals and families seeking housing in South Carolina. With the rental market experiencing high demand, the platform offers a valuable resource for tenants looking to secure their next home.

Owners and/or management companies interested in listing their properties on SCHousingSearch.com can easily sign up and create listings on the platform. The website also offers resources and support for landlords, including tips for maximizing property listings and attracting potential tenants.
